

Conceptual Development, Spring 2018 Student Feedback

Student Comments:

- He made us think about connecting each week's topic to each other.
- Dominic is super nice, great and fast at responding to questions, and is very knowledgeable about the topics and theories we discussed
- He cared a lot about the material. Professor Gibson is younger and still relatable and was able to lead an interesting discussion on most days.
- Dominic is a gem! A three hour class starting at 9:30 am may seem daunting, but Dominic did a great job keeping us engaged through discussion, videos, group work, etc. All of the assignments, quizzes and readings were very reasonable (and interesting)
- Professor Gibson showed us videos of the experiments we discussed being preformed which helped us to follow the researchers' logic but also point out flaws
- I learned about different theories of how we develop concepts and we discussed different topics like number, spatial navigation, object permanence, false belief tasks, etc.
- The course surveys a lot of interesting material. Sometimes it felt free form, but it was always brought back together nicely to give you a larger picture of the field of conceptual/developmental psychology.
- This course was great! I especially liked the emphasis on language and its role in conceptual development.
- This course builds well off of intro psych courses and takes the concepts you learn there and pushes you to question them and think about them critically
