

Mind: Dimensions of Individual Behavior, Fall 2018-2

Student Feedback

Student Comments:

- Dominic is a wonderful instructor in that he knows how to steer the conversation back to relevant information between speakers but still allows for the students to direct the course of the conversation.
- Dominic is really great at managing the classroom and providing a structural outline of what is expected out of a discussion (covering the main points and taking us along a path to understand research and the topics presented).
- Professor Gibson was great at facilitating discussions, as he always gave people chances to voice their own opinions or steer in a different direction than expected but still kept the class on task. He sometimes gave quick summaries of ideas presented in lecture or readings which was really helpful for the more complicated topics.
- Dominic was a great professor! Helped to facilitate the discussions and also gave good feedback
- I appreciated Dominic's availability outside class to discuss my performance, and feedback from those sessions to help me improve.
- He was a great facilitator of discussions and made the lectures and readings accessible to those who had limited knowledge about the subject matter.
- Dominic was quite good at responding to students' confusion and trying to clear up exactly what students were saying to one another before continuing with the material. I found that he was great at facilitating discussion and asking questions that helped me write my discussion posts later in the week.
- He was very inclusive of ideas, and brought interesting points to discussion.
- He clearly knew what he was talking about and was good at facilitating class discussion. He gave us plenty of opportunities to talk about could always come up with a counter-argument or something new to move the discussion along.
- He was very helpful and accommodating and paced the class in a way cohesive to learning.
